Fighting For David

Leone Nunley with Dean Merrill

Doctors told Leone Nunley that her 21 year old David was in a "persistent coma and vegetative" after a motorcycle accident. Fighting for David tells the story of Leone's courageous battle for David's life, his family's fight to help him overcome many of his disabilities. Leone Nunley is a person well qualified to help readers understand why faith and persistence are more powerful than a doctor's diagnosis.

A powerful book of love and hope. Fighting for David dispels the myth that the quality of life determines value. Mrs. Nunley has poignantly shown us the reality of the severely disabled as only a loving mother could. As someone who fought for Terri Schiavo, I commend Mrs. Nunley for her success in helping her son. This book will challenge your heart to appreciate the precious gift from God.

Have Mercy: A Christian Response To The Court-Ordered Killing Of Terri Schiavo

David C. Gibbs, III, Dr. David Stevens, and Joni Eareckson Tada

The attention of the world was riveted on Florida in March 2005 as lawmakers debated and decided whether Terri Schiavo would live or die. The world watched as Terri Schiavo, 41, was forced to die by dehydration over 13 days. Have Mercy offers the perspectives of medical, and disabled persons' perspectives on this moral tragedy, as Dr. Kennedy with the attorney for the parents of Terri Schiavo, David C. Gibbs, III; the executive director of the Christian Medical Association, Dr. David Stevens; and nationally known advocate for the disabled, Joni Eareckson Tada.
